ExxonMobil Corporation is the largest non-governmental integrated petroleum company in the world.

Job description

At ExxonMobil we look for the best and brightest people with exceptional talent and incredible drive. In exchange for commitment, integrity, innovation and passion, we provide work that is challenging and rewarding. ExxonMobil established the European Business Support Center in Budapest in 2004, employing more than 500 people in the Controllers department. It has become an indispensable service provider for ExxonMobil affiliates in Europe, Africa and the Middle East. Controllers is looking for smart, energized candidates who enjoy a dynamic work environment with many challenges, and who want to position themselves for a long term career with a well-established international company. An analyst will be responsible for operational, general or financial accounting support including end-to-end processing, issue resolution and process improvements. Individuals may be responsible for the activities of specific countries and hence knowledge of a second European language is desirable.

Demonstrated performance will lead to opportunities for increasing responsibilities and more job complexities across the financial organization.
